

Register Report for William KENDALL

Generation 1

1. William KENDALL-1. Burial on 18 Nov 1583 in Tickhill, Yorkshire, England. He died Abt. 18 Nov 1583 in Tickhill, Yorkshire, England.

Notes for William KENDALL:

General Notes:

There are no baptismal records for Kendalls in Tickhill, Yorkshire before Ann Kendall's in 1580. Records are scant before that time -- there are few entries from the beginning of the parish records (1542) to 1580.

The Tickhill registers also include the following surnames: Wilkinson, Roebuck, Crosland, Kitchen, Taylor, Faram. These are all surnames that are seen again and again in the various parishes where the Kendalls moved to over the years.

- viii. George KENDALL. He was born Bef. 10 Sep 1775 in Auckley, Finningley, Nottingham, England. Christening on 10 Sep 1775 in Auckley, Finningley, Nottingham, England. He married Elizabeth BARRETT. They were married on 16 Sep 1811 in Thorne, Yorkshire, England. He died in Ontario, Canada.

Notes for George KENDALL:

General Notes:

George moved away from the family to Thorne, Yorkshire, possibly due to a job at a peat mine in the area. He continued to be listed as a wheelwright, later changed to cooper. Local historians indicate that this would have been a natural progression once he left the employ of the mine.

George and Elizabeth had 8 children. The two eldest, Ann (c. Sep 20, 1812) and Sarah (c. Dec 17, 1814) were married in Thorne. Ann to George WILKINSON on December 3, 1833 and Sarah to William STONES on January 19, 1836. The Stones carried on their lives in the Thorne area and the family line continues to live in Thorne (at 2005).

George (July 17, 1821), Enoch (May 23, 1823), Elijah (December 12, 1828) and Elizabeth (April 10, 1832), plus Ann and George Wilkinson, emigrated to Canada with George and Elizabeth sometime between 1836 and 1845, where they settled in Ontario.

The following is from the records of Dave Hill (son of Earl's sister Vivian)

"George served with the British army as a cavalry officer under Wellington at the Battle of Waterloo. Shortly thereafter he sailed for Canada and took a military land grant in the township of Reach in Ontario County, in the village of Utica near Port Perry. Not much is known about the land grant, but apparently George owned several properties and had different members of his family living on them." <Note that there is no record of George's service in any form. Wellington's and other military troops of the time are very well documented in the UK Archives in Kew, outside London.>

"After George's wife died, Dec 11 1857, the old man spent his time going from one of his children's homes to another, as the spirit moved him. One day he took his old dog and walked out to visit his daughter. Neither he nor his dog was ever seen again."

His disappearance remained a mystery until the turn of the century, when Mrs. Parkes (Elizabeth Kendall) told the rest of the family the story. She and her husband had been renting a parcel of land from her father, in the Village of Prince Albert. Parkes ran a small tavern on the property. One day when the old man signed what he thought was a rental agreement, he inadvertently signed a deed to the property which Parkes had substituted for the agreement. Some time later, on a summer morning, Parkes met the old man and his dog and killed them both. He dropped them down an abandoned well on the property and partly filled it in.

William Parkes had confessed this to his wife, for what reason I'm sure I don't know. Maybe his conscience drove him to tell her. I don't believe he was ever made to account for what he did. At least not in this life.

So much time had passed when the truth finally came out no one had any accurate information as to the exact location of the well. So, although there was talk of trying to find the old chap and giving him a proper burial, it was decided to let sleeping dogs lie. So to speak. Much of this information comes from Arvid Kendall's cousin, Donald Kendall, who has done much research on the Kendall and Stretton families.
